Characters:

- Which scene has stuck with you the most?
- Would you want to read another book by this author?
- Are there lingering questions from the book you're still thinking about?
- Did the book feel real to you?
- Were there any plot twists that you loved? Hated?
- For many years, Zoe has carried the guilt of being responsible for the death of two young children. Do you think one can ever make amends for something so heartbreaking?
- At the end of Lucas's retelling of his life, Harris remarks that everyone dies in Lucas's story. Lucas replies, "But I still have to say it's not devastating that people and animals live and then die... It's hard, but those are the rules of the game." And then he thinks, If you think having and losing is bad, try never having. Now that's devastating. Do you agree or disagree with Lucas's philosophy on life?
- How have the characters changed by the end of the book?
